

TIMOTHY OULTON

QUARRY COFFEE TABLE

Coffee Tables

Taking inspiration from the dramatic slate quarries of Wales, the Quarry coffee table celebrates slate in its pure, natural form. Slate is formed over millions of years from layers of fine mudstone and sometimes volcanic ash that becomes buried under pressure below the Earth's surface. Neolithic hunters used slate to tip wooden arrows and spears, the Romans used it to build forts, and slate is today revered in both period and modern architecture. A hand-hammered surface and uneven edges complete with the odd intentional chip give this piece a wonderfully rugged texture, honouring the unrefined beauty of the natural world.

TABLE SPECIFICATION

| | |
|---------------------|--------------------|
| Product Code: | T-ACF-AJ-0001-Z |
| Product Height: | 40cm / 15.7" |
| Product Width: | 150cm / 59.1" |
| Product Depth: | 90cm / 35.4" |
| Weight: | 173.5kg / 381.7lbs |
| Frame Construction: | Stone |

